

Long Overdue Legal Accountability for Sexual Exploitation Through Social Media

Thanks to the brave voices of survivors and the collective efforts of law firms, advocates, journalists, and more, groundbreaking progress has been and is being made in this space.

For example, in the past year class action lawsuits have been filed against Pornhub, Twitter, and Xvideos for distributing abuse videos. The progress these lawsuits have been making through the courts is historic in the way it challenges assumptions of blanket immunity under CDA 230. Judges are speaking out against the overly broad interpretation of CDA 230 immunity and calling for the law to be updated or clarified.

In this episode of the Ending Sexual Exploitation podcast, Peter Gentala (Senior Legal Counsel at the NCOSE Law Center) emphasizes that “we are at an inflection point” and now is the time to make a difference.
