

TikTok Under Federal Investigation for Child Sexual Abuse Material (CSAM)

TikTok needs to do much more to protect minors from predators, exposure to sexual content, and pornographic websites.

We (and others like the National Association of Attorney Generals) have been pressing on TikTok to give more control to parents and to proactively moderate content because even our own research confirms what the Wall Street Journal found: under an account we created as being for a 13-year-old, we were easily able to find videos promoting OnlyFans, as well as other pornography and prostitution sites despite the fact that this type of material is against TikTok's Community Guidelines.

TikTok and all social media companies must be accountable for the environments they create, especially when their insufficient policies and practices leave so much room for exploitation, abuse, and harm.
